Brownstone: The Epitome of Urban Sophistication

The brownstone, a symbol of affluence and grandeur, reigned supreme in New York City during the mid-19th century. These opulent townhouses are characterized by their reddish-brown sandstone exteriors, elaborate ironwork, and dramatic bay windows. Step inside and be greeted by soaring ceilings, intricate moldings, and exquisite fireplaces. With its timeless elegance, the brownstone continues to captivate those who appreciate the finer things in life.

DIY Project: Repurposing a Brownstone Façade

Add a touch of brownstone grandeur to your own home with a faux facade. Frame your front door or porch with a classic brownstone arch, complete with decorative trim and a keystone. Paint the exterior in a deep, rich hue to emulate the distinctive look of a real brownstone.

Saltbox: A Colonial Gem with a Rich History

The saltbox, with its asymmetrical roofline and central chimney, is a quintessential New England home style that dates back to the 17th century. These charming houses are known for their cozy interiors, with low ceilings, exposed beams, and wide-plank flooring. The saltbox exudes a sense of warmth and nostalgia, harkening back to a simpler time.

DIY Project: Building a Saltbox Porch

Bring the distinctive charm of the saltbox to your home with a custom-built porch. Use reclaimed wood for a weathered, authentic look. Design the porch with a sloping roof and support it with decorative wooden brackets. Add a rocking chair and a few potted plants to create a welcoming outdoor space.

Craftsman: The Essence of Arts and Crafts Architecture

The Craftsman style, popular from the late 19th century to the early 20th century, is characterized by its natural materials, organic forms, and attention to detail. Craftsman houses feature low-pitched roofs with overhanging eaves, exposed rafters, and inviting porches. Inside, you'll find cozy living spaces, built-in cabinetry, and stained glass windows.

DIY Project: Creating a Craftsman-Style Lamp

Incorporate the earthy beauty of the Craftsman style into your home with a handmade lamp. Use natural wood, such as oak or cherry, for the base and create a simple, geometric shade using brown or green fabric. Add a few decorative touches, such as copper rivets or a leather strap, to complete the look.
