The hadith in Sahih Muslim were collected by Muslim ibn al-Hajjaj al-Nishapuri, a Persian scholar who lived in the 9th century CE. Muslim spent over 30 years collecting hadith from all over the Muslim world, and he only included hadith that met his strict criteria for authenticity.

The criteria that Muslim used to judge the authenticity of a hadith were based on the following factors:

- The reliability of the narrator

- The number of people who narrated the hadith
- The consistency of the hadith with other hadith
- The absence of any evidence that the hadith was fabricated

As a result of Muslim's rigorous criteria, Sahih Muslim is considered to be one of the most reliable collections of hadith in Islam. The hadith in Sahih Muslim are used by Muslims all over the world to guide their lives and practice their religion.
